Introduction

The Bibliography of Rural Health is a continuing initiative of the Postgraduate Medical Education Committee, The University of Queensland, which provides a resource for health professionals, research workers, planners and members of the community with an interest in rural health.

Edition Two, comprising 1134 references, published in July 1993 adds substantially to the collection of references in the field of rural health, rural medical practice and continuing education developed during the Committee’s research work and collated in the first edition. The present edition of the bibliography incorporates references from the growing number of articles becoming available both in Australian and overseas, published between 1990 and 1993. Relevant projects cited in the Rural Health Research Register which details work undertaken by Australian researchers in the field of rural health are also included in this edition, representing some of the most recent research currently being documented.
